

get connected!

Life should be simple.

*Portus believes so,
and brings you technology
that gives you control over your life in ways never before possible.*

Introducing the DIAS. One box for all your connectivity and services needs. Simple, functional, affordable technology from the company with a philosophy that good products should be simple to use, look great and do the all the things you really need them to. Leaving you more time to relax and enjoy life.

The DIAS is a single integrated device providing total home connectivity and a platform for the delivery of multiple services to your home, without the need for separate systems.

Integrating a broadband interface, the DIAS also provides the three essential networks for the modern home or office: wireless LAN, long range Bluetooth and Powerline communication.

In addition to providing unsurpassed home networking capability and wireless shared Internet access, the DIAS acts as your security system, your home control system, and your energy management system, delivering the ultimate in security, convenience and peace of mind.

And installation is easy - no new wires are required.

The DIAS provides a user interface that is simple, intuitive and aesthetic, placing the functions that you need most directly at your fingertips. Whether you are in the home or away, you can view and control any aspect of your home environment through the same consistent web-enabled interface. You can even do this from your mobile phone, allowing you the ultimate in convenience and control.

View

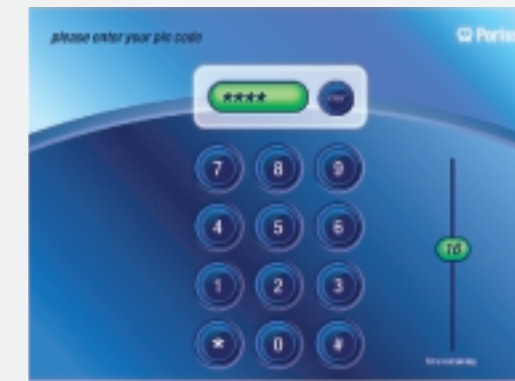

Add one or more cameras, and you can choose what you want to see in your home. Whether you want to keep an eye on children, or just check that everything's fine when you're on holiday, you have complete control.

You can even view your home using the current crop of video enabled mobile phones. And since the cameras are wireless, installation is a breeze.

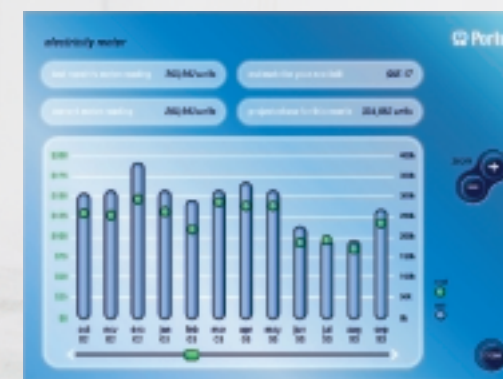

Control

The DIAS comes with built-in home automation and control. No matter where you are, you can manage any aspect of your home, including your appliances, lighting, heating and cooling. All with simple one touch control. You have the ability to set individual devices in your home environment or you can choose from a selection of modes that have been configured for each zone in your home. The system will even learn your preferences and automatically select the most appropriate mode if you want it to.

Security

What is more important than your personal security? With the DIAS, you get a sophisticated security system built in. Whether you want to manage your own security, or have a professionally monitored solution, it will satisfy your needs. It gives you fine-grain control over what should happen if an intrusion is detected in your home. The system will automatically alert you in the manner you specify, including SMS or MMS notification to your mobile phone, whenever an alarm is triggered.

Energy

Manage your energy consumption. The DIAS gives you instantaneous access to both current and historical consumption and billing information, allowing you to take control of your energy bill. You can even set the system to control the energy costs of large loads, such as your heating and cooling system.

So get connected!
The DIAS gives you control over your life in a way never
before possible.
